

Of Interest to Women

PICTURESQUE MODES

They Come to Little Girls in Their Purest Forms.

The picturesqueness that distinguishes so many of the present modes is nowhere more noticeable than in millinery for little girls. Here all the quaint styles of headgear that have been revived for the benefit of the grown-ups are seen in greater purity of form, for they have not been subjected to the processes of transformation thought necessary to bring them into harmony with the character of the modern woman. Poke bonnets for the baby are the real thing, completely covering the back of the head and projecting far over the face in a way that the adult specimen of this kind of head covering never does unless it is intended for motoring.

The bonnets for little girls need only

Mme. Papin condemns most emphatically the "giraffe" once craved by Burns, "to see ourself as others see us," she believes would be all that would be needed to induce any woman who once wore a skirt of this kind to betake herself immediately to something more conventional.

ACADEMY OF DESIGN YIELDS

Gives Up Idea of a Building All Its Own, Says Alexander.

John W. Alexander confessed to the League for Political Education, at its annual luncheon in the Hotel Astor yesterday, that the National Academy of Design had given up all thought of a building for itself alone.

"It is our misfortune that we have no gallery for exhibitions," he added. "There is plenty of good work done by New York artists, but no place where it can be shown. The Society of Mural Painters is putting forth some fine things, things it would be an education for the public to see

RIVAL CLUBS IN SESSION

Lawyers Profit by Dispute of Theatre Organizations.

In old days young lawyers had a hard time at the start to get clients. They don't now. Warring women's clubs give them all the occupation they need. Two of them, George H. Savage and E. F. Radtke, put in a busy afternoon yesterday at the Hotel Astor playing star parts in a rehearsal of "There's Much is Really the Theatre Club."

What Mrs. Belle de Rivera, the president, told every one was the Theatre Club of New York met in the College Room, on the eighth floor. That was faction number one. Faction number two, headed by Mrs. J. Christopher Marks, put on its best clothes and gathered in the Rose Room, on the first floor, feeling secure in the fact that it was incorporated last week under the name of the Theatre Club.

But Mrs. Marks, president pro tem., had barely banged the gavel when Mr. Savage skinned agitatedly to her side. There was a moment's conference, and Mrs.
